

Why join us

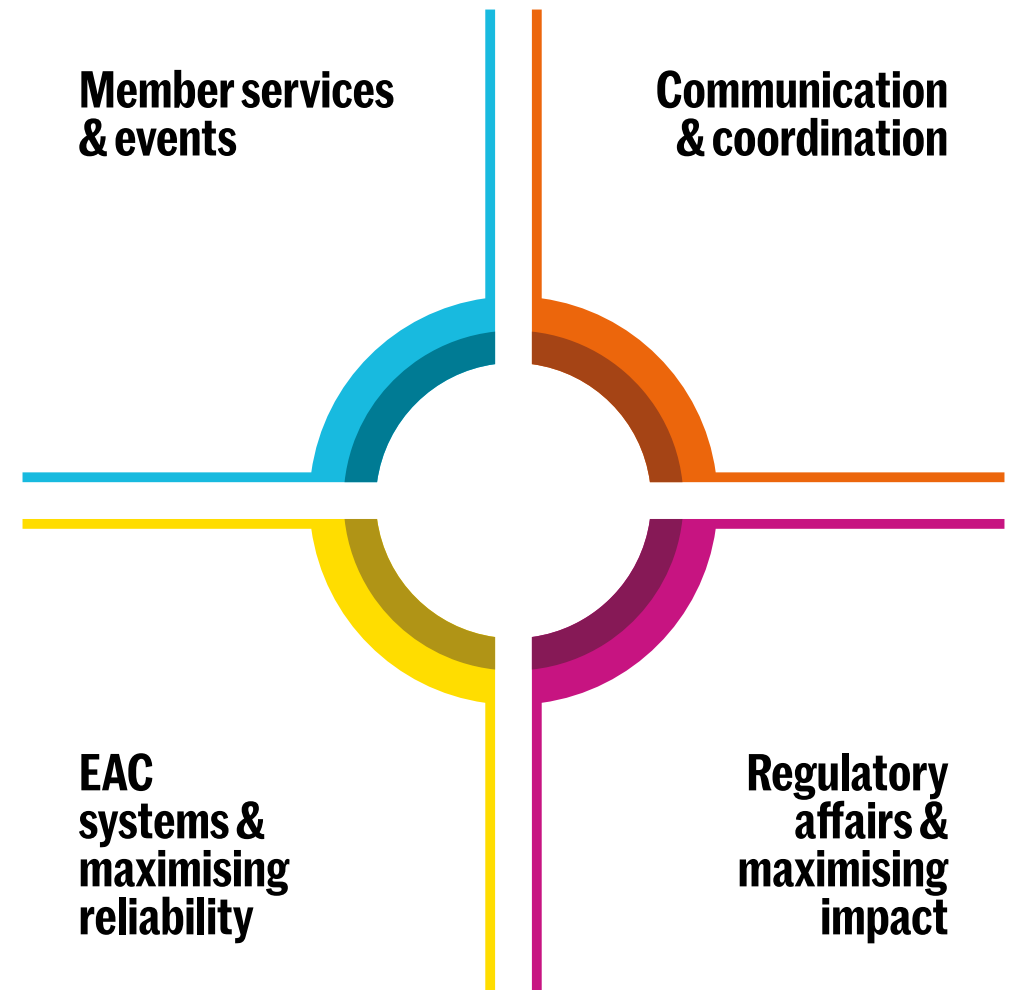

Join the largest network of renewable energy buyers and sellers

For over 20 years RECS International has been committed to accelerating the energy transition by supporting the purchase of renewable energy through robust, reliable, transparent markets. Energy Attribute Certificates (EACs) are the tools we use to unlock this vision.

At RECS International we support the development of both existing and new EAC markets around the world. We engage with a wide range of stakeholders, including governments, market participants and consumers, and provide the knowledge and information they need to boost consumer demand for renewable energy. RECS International works to provide the knowledge, motivation, and confidence needed to buy 100% renewable energy.

Membership benefits

Expert knowledge

Members have full access to the knowledge of our secretariat, which includes experts on tracking systems, energy attribute certificates (EACs) and consumer claims.

Having a voice in the organisation and beyond

Being a member of RECS International allows you to be closely involved with the work of the organisation and provide input during members-only meetings, including on the development of the work programme and our general strategy. This involvement supports our lobbying, which has a real effect on the market and delivers change on behalf of our members.

Access to working groups

As a member, you can play a significant role in the organisation by joining working groups that tackle the most important issues we address. These groups review draft documents and reports on topics such as regulatory compliance, new technologies (e.g. blockchain), the certification of non-electricity energy carriers, and the development of standard contracts for EAC trading.
